

In Phoenix, pan for gold or catch a comet's tail

PHOENIX — Banish your family's summer doldrums by heading to the Valley of the Sun where the blue skies seem limitless. Here are 10 surefire let's-have-fun activities in the area:

RIDE A CAMEL: Find nearly any animal you can think of at the Phoenix Zoo in Papago Park, including camels for hire in the African savanna exhibit. The Children's Loop includes tractors to climb on and a petting zoo full of furry goats and sheep. The Stingray Bay touch tank is the latest interactive experience. With its lagoons and towering shade trees the zoo is a cool oasis. 455 N. Galvin Parkway, 602-273-1341, phoenixzoo.org, adults $14, seniors $9, children $6.

HIKE THE HOLE: Scramble up the butte to Hole-in-the-Rock in Papago Park. The eroded red sandstone rocks are an easy destination for kid-length legs. The landmark may have been used by Native Americans to mark the summer and winter solstices. Afterwards, enjoy the rest of the 1,200-acre park and visit the botanical gardens, softball fields, desert trails, and lagoons. 625 N. Galvin Parkway.

CATCH A HOME RUN: Bring your glove and watch the Arizona Diamondbacks play at Chase Field. Come early on night game dates and tour the stadium. Check out the retractable roof and swimming pool. For the game, sit in the suites next to the dugouts for up-close action. 401 E. Jefferson St., diamondbacks.mlb.com.

DIG THE PAST: Explore Pueblo Grande Museum and Archaeological Park with its 1,500-year-old Hohokam village ruins, ball court, platform mound, irrigation canals, and a full-scale reproduction of prehistoric homes. See how archeologists study clues from ancient and historic sites in the "Dig It" exhibit with a life-size replica of an excavated trench. 4619 E. Washington St., 602-495-0901, pueblogrande.com, adults $5, 55 and over $4, 6 to 17 $3, under 6 free.

TURN ON THE LIGHTS: Explore

BOB RINK

Take a kid-friendly hike to Hole-in-the-Rock in Papago Park. At Chase Field, home of Major League Baseball's Arizona Diamondbacks, visitors can sit in suites next to the dugouts.

a house's innards and see how plumbing, electricity, and carpentry work at the Arizona Science Center's Many Hands Make a Home exhibit. The center features 300 interactive exhibits, an IMAX Theater, and a newly renovated planetarium. Explore gravity, friction, and magnetism at the Fab Lab; the All About You exhibit investigates the physiology of moving, healing, and memory. 600 E. Washington St., 602-716-2000, azscience.org, adults $9, seniors $7, children $7. Additional charges for IMAX.

PACK A PICNIC: Take a swimsuit, fishing rod, and picnic basket to Encanto Park, a 222-acre oasis in central Phoenix. "Encanto" means "enchanted" in Spanish, and the park is indeed that, featuring lagoons, an Olympic-sized swimming pool, and nature trails. Play golf at two palm tree-dotted courses (18- and 9-hole). Rent paddle boats and canoes and explore the lagoons. Kiddieland, a permanent children's carnival, adds to the enchantment. 2605 N. 15th Ave.

RIDE 'EM COWBOY: Saddle up

at the OK Corral. Take a horseback ride through the Sonoran Desert. See saguaro cacti and the rugged Superstition Mountains. Learn about the famous Legend of the Lost Dutchman Gold Mine and the Old West. 2655 E. Whiteley St., Apache Junction, 480-982-4040, okcorrals.com.

PAN FOR GOLD: Visit Goldfield Ghost Town, an authentic 1890s Old West mining town. Put on your Stetson hat and Levis and watch gunfight reenactments, ride a horse, and tour the underground mine. View the Superstitions from a narrow-gauge train. 4650 N. Mammoth Mine Road, Apache
